BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

The meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening was one of unusual interest to all the members and that they understood this was shown in the large attendance. The members had as their guests two distinguished men in public life and during the evening they gave the men much food for thought. First of all Henry I. Harriman, vice-president of the New England Waterways Company, told of the great possibilities of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river development and then Dr. John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, and the greatest booster for Boston that is on the platform today, told of the great Boston harbor, what our water front means and of the grand opportunity there is for New England to become the most important section of these United States.

Mr. Harriman was the first speaker and he endeavored to make clear to the minds of every man present that at the Great Lakes lies the chance of the New England states, as well as New York. Harness this great water system of the St. Lawrence and erect Hydro electric plants, make the Lakes navigable for big ships and build a canal so that they can have access to the sea, are the plans suggested. The undertaking is of necessity a huge one and would cost at least $300,000,000 before it was completed. The speaker went on to show how this could be made to pay for itself in a very few years in the saving of coal and in other economies. A bigger, better and more prosperous New England is the idea of the men who are backing this gigantic proposition. There are many obstacles in the way at the present time and the railroads are much in fear of losing some of the business they are not able to take care of at the present time. This great proposition had its origin in the West, where they are doing things that are little known here. The Great Lakes extend for thousands of miles through the heart of America. The shores are fertile and the section abounds in manufacturing. During the past twenty years a great commerce has been built up, but the shippers need access to the sea coast instead of reshipping the goods at points along the Great Lakes. There is greater tonnage on the Great Lakes than in any other section of the United States, but the ships cannot go any farther than Buffalo. Objections to the plan have been raised on account of Niagara Falls and the St. Lawrence rapids. The Welland Canal, which is being built by the Canadian government, will be completed in about two years and this will take the ships around the falls, removing this obstacle. The rapids would be taken care of by a system of dams and locks, coming out into deep water just below Montreal. That the speaker had given his subject very close study and was well qualified to speak was very evident. He went into detail as to the technical terms of grades and drops, amount of power, figured by kilowatt hours that could be developed and every detail he had at his tongue's end. The project today is under consideration as to cost, commercial possibilities and other things and the report will be presented to Congress.

The three great fundamentals of the entire project are the amount of power, the effect on domestic and foreign commerce. As to the first, the St. Lawrence river drains one quarter of the continent, north of Mexico. If developed as a power, this water could produce 4,000,000 horse power per day, which is equal to 26,000,000 kilowatt hours per day. This would be equal to the burning of 30,000,000 tons of coal. The saving on the coal is thus apparent. The river has a drop of 221 feet, which would make it possible to harness it and make the conditions right for the development of the power. The natural market for the power would be New York state and the New England states, or a radius of 300 miles, the carrying distance of the power. Canada would benefit, and it is understood they are deeply in favor of the project. Half the cost would be borne by the Canadian government and the other half by the United States. The railroad could then be electrified and the saving on coal alone in a few years would be enormous, while the results would be far greater than could be imagined. The present steam engine is of necessity a wasteful machine, consuming a vast amount of coal in operation. Mr. Harriman estimates that to electrify all the railroads it would cost $60,000,000, but this would pay for itself in five years at the most in the saving of coal. Then the utilities would be benefited, the industries strengthened and all down the line, because this power could be produced so much cheaper than by the present methods. The effect on domestic commerce would be that large manufacturing centers such as we have would be benefited by bringing in vast quantities of raw material, to be sent out as finished product. The freight rates are now high and slow, but with the Great Lakes waterway opened, we could ship much cheaper and in a much shorter time, although the distance would be longer. This is because the freight now has to be rehandled, while if ships were used the goods could be brought to the great centers by water.

The effect on foreign commerce would be that we would lose some but could make this up many times over by the cargoes our ships could pick up enroute, at Halifax and along the Great Lakes. There are two sides to the question. The shipping interests fear shipping will suffer, they fear that if the government spends so much money on this project there will be little left for some pet projects. Then the railroads fear that they will lose out and that their transfer centers will suffer. These two elements are working to defeat what seems to be one of the greatest steps toward progress that this country, especially New England, has ever made.

Dr. Fitzgerald received a great ovation when he arrived at the meeting, coming from a Board of Trade meeting in Revere to address the Arlington Board. He spoke in favor of the Great Lakes project and urged the men to stand firm and push the thing through. He told of the great possibilities here in New England. The men today are thinking too much of making money. It is time to make the money man work, he stated, and for New England to be up and doing. Instead he said we are slipping behind all the time. There are millions of acres of some of the best land in the world idle and going to waste in New England for want of someone to lead back to the farm movement. The high cost of everything was our own fault. He was in favor of the government letting into this country farmers and laborers from other countries and giving them lots of land on which to raise crops. We have the greatest pasture land in the world, yet millions of acres are rotting here in New England for want of someone to get busy. What is everyone's business is no one's business, hence the lack of interest in doing anything toward getting busy.

Dr. Fitzgerald's pet project is the development of the port of Boston. He has always been a strong advocate of this and has worked hard in an effort to get the big ships of the world to come here. Last year the shipping at the port of Boston fell off $50,000,000, and the huge pier, built by our state, is now used as a storehouse. He had many facts and figures which he presented for consideration, and his wit at times and importance of the subject held the interest of his audience. Getting down to Metropolitan Boston, he did not think it would be a wise thing for Arlington to go into this. To be sure if they were made a part of Boston, they would have a lower tax rate, more school facilities and many other things, but they would lose their identity in one of the greatest institutions that has ever been known the old-fashioned town elections and town meetings. He had many facts and figures relating to Arlington and knew our history much better than many of those present.

Dr. Fitzgerald closed with a stirring appeal to all to get busy, push New England, get going, and put New England, where she belongs and so reap the benefits of the many natural resources. He finished in a round of applause and then by request he sang the song which made him famous "Sweet Adeline."

During the business session eighteen new members were admitted. The committee appointed at the last meeting to look into the matter of better lights for the center of the town reported progress. The members went on record as against the daylight saving. After supper many songs were sung, two new ones from the pen of the secretary, R. Walter Hilliard, who made quite a hit by his presentation of a huge medal to President Arthur Birch.

DANCE BY ARLINGTON GAS CO. EMPLOYEES.

Friends of the employees of Arlington Gas Company joined with them in making their second annual dancing party a grand success. It was given Wednesday evening in Robbins Memorial Town hall, and beside the many who participated in dancing, there were quite a number who came to look on and they occupied seats in the gallery.

Seaver's orchestra of Medford played for the dancing and gave satisfaction. There were plenty of waltzes and a generous amount of encores and all appeared to be having the best of a good time. Some veterans in this pleasant diversion were noted on the floor and for ease and grace they certainly carried off the palm, taken as a whole.

In point of dressing each followed his own inclination. There were many lovely evening toilettes and some dressy frocks while others (of course we refer to the ladies) were in stylish street costumes. Among the number were several beautiful black tulle toilettes, some combined with jet and other with the blue sequins. There was one white satin toilette on a blond, that was especially stylish and becoming to the wearer. Another was an orchid colored taffeta with ribbon garniture in the blue and a shoulder decoration of purple pansies. There were several pink and also blue toilettes that were especially pretty.

The stage was outlined with primroses and daffodils combined with palms. Fern-filled hanging baskets on the stage added to the pleasing decorative scheme. At intermission,

The Hardy Catering Company served refreshments.

The general committee was headed by Frank A. Woodhead, the manager of the company, as chairman, assisted by Manuel Lopez as sub-chairman, and Miss Mary Shean, Miss Alice Tierney, Miss Elizabeth Tierney, Miss Mary Patterson, Miss Marion McManus, Miss Katherine Kelley, Miss Marion Mustoe, Mrs. Grace Woods, Mrs. Pearl Miller, Mrs. Alice McKeeney, Edward J. Crowe, John Bradley, Frank Ahern, Bert McGreevey, O. F. Pulli, Anthony P. Lopez, James F. Haley and Daniel Shea.

THEODORE DORR DUPEE.

Theodore D. Dupee, long a well-known figure in stock brokerage circles of Boston, died early Saturday morning, January 29th, at his home at 203 Park avenue, Arlington Hgts., where he had resided for thirty-five years or more. He had been in ill health for several years, yet his death at this time was wholly unexpected. Two days previous to his death the doctor had been called on account of a sudden collapse of Mr. Dupee. He found a well developed case of Bright's disease. Mr. Dupee however soon rallied from this and on Friday took a long walk over the Heights. Early Saturday morning he was again taken suddenly ill and called for help, but passed away shortly after.

Theodore Dorr Dupee was born in Lexington November 16th, 1849. He was the son of Elias and Mary Dupee, the latter of Revolutionary stock, whose ancestors fought in the battle of Lexington. Mr. Dupee attended the public schools of his native town and after finishing at the high school he began his business career as a clerk for a Boston banking and brokerage firm. He was for some time with Brewster, Sweet & Co., and later was the senior member of the brokerage firm of Dupee & Sargent, afterward continuing in business independently. He retired about ten years ago. He had been one of the last of the "old guard" members of the Boston Stock Exchange.

Mr. Dupee had been a member of the Union Club, The Country Club, and the Belmont Spring Country Club, but he had dropped these interests. In recent years, because of his health. He formerly belonged to the old Puritan Club, which was merged years ago into the Boston Art Club. He married Miss Mary Louise Hobart, in Boston, on April 23, 1889, and they went to Arlington to make their home. Mrs. Dupee died on Sept. 13, 1920. His only surviving relative is a niece, Mrs. Charles H. Gannett of Arlington. Miss Cora Colluppy, who for twenty-three years has been a member of the Dupee household and whose faithful and professional experience has made her a valuable member of the family circle, will have the sympathy of friends for she has been like a daughter in the family.

The funeral was held Monday at 2 o'clock, from the late residence of the deceased. The devotional service was conducted by Dr. Frederic Gill, minister of the First Parish Unitarian church, who was also a close friend of Mr. Dupee. The interment was in the family lot in Lexington.

ICE HOCKEY GAMES.

Arlington Wins.

The High School ice hockey team played two hard games last week, defeating Roxbury Latin last Friday and playing the Boston Latin school team to a tie, with extra periods, on Saturday afternoon, in the new rink on Spy Pond. Both these teams have been going good all the season and were cracked up by sport writers for some time. Arlington has been plugging along and playing a good game, well able to stand up with the best that come along. The Roxbury Latin game ended in a four to two win for Arlington. Berry, the goal tend for Arlington, gave the Roxbury boys one of their tallies in a misplay in which he knocked the puck into his own net in trying to knock it out. In this game Tobin started, getting three of the goals. Lynch also played a fine game, being fast and sure of his plays. The score of this game was as follows:

ARLINGTON H. S. BOXBURY LATIN
Tobin rw. lw Wiesner
Berry c. c Woodley
Lynch r. r Hoffman
Bateman lw. cp Hammond
Crosby p. p Chase
Berry g. g Dewart
Score: Arlington 4, Roxbury Latin 2.
Goals: Tobin 3, Lynch, Hammond, Berry.
Referee: Jost. Assistant referee: Head.
Goal umpires: Gay and Fitzpatrick. Timers: Leonard and Merrigan. Time: three 15-minute periods.

In the Boston Latin game on Saturday the Arlington boys played well but missed some chances to win their game. The visitors were good players, and their defense was of the best. Arlington's forward line did a good job, but only once were they able to get the puck in the Boston net. Arlington lead until the third period when Raymond, the star of the visiting team, got the puck through Berry for the tally which tied the score. An extra period was played and the same result, so as darkness was growing, the game was called off with a tie score. The summary of this game was as follows:

ARLINGTON H. S. BOSTON LATIN
Donnelly rw. lw Nordberg
Crosby c. c O'Neil
Lynch r. r Raymond
Bateman lw. cp Fitzgerald
Bateman lw. cp Collins
Haley cp. cp
Crosby p. p
Berry g. g Norton
Score: Arlington H. S. 1, Boston Latin 1.
Goals: made by Hardy, Raymond. Referee: Jost. Goal umpires: Gay, Tobin. Timers: Berry, McCutler. Time: three 12-minute and two 5-minute overtime periods.

FORTY-TWO PLAYERS OF SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA IN ARLINGTON.

Arlington has had many artists of high rank who have been heard in Town hall, but never before has there been such a group in one concert as were assembled in Robbins Memorial Town Hall on the evening of Thursday, January 27th, when forty-two players of the Boston Symphony Orchestra appeared in concert, under the auspices of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church for the benefit of its church building fund.

It was a stupendous effort on the part of the committee, who have not only arranged for this musical treat, but also for two other notable evenings.

On Wednesday, Feb. 16, Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D., of Brooklyn, New York, will lecture, assisted by the Schupert Male Quartette. On March 15th, Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, soprano, and Arthur Hackett, of New York, tenor, will give a concert.

On Thursday evening there were about seven hundred who listened to the Symphony players. The hall seats nine hundred and why every seat was not taken was almost unthinkable. It was a rare privilege to have had brought right to our very door such a large number of these musicians having a world-wide reputation and truly a reflection on Arlington that out of a population of 19,412, so small a per cent. are evidently musical. For of course the inference is that everyone who considers themselves musical was present. One of our greatest assets is the opportunity to hear good music and if one has not a fondness for it, then it should be cultivated.

Those who have subscribed to the course are greatly indebted to the committee for giving them an opportunity to attend. They are Messrs. Harold C. Durrell, C. W. Whitney, A. M. Simmons each chairman of a department of the Methodist church, with Charles E. Dockrill as manager.

The program was a popular classical one, made up of numbers that never grow hacknied with repetition. Agide Jachia, the conductor, while somewhat erratic in his conducting and individual in his interpretation of some of the music is delightful and interesting and evidently his orchestra is in sympathy with him, for it always gives a satisfactory performance. His personality dominates his players and sways his audience as well, for as one knows, he has become the idol of the patrons of the Pops, who follow his work with great enthusiasm.

The program on Thursday is too well known to be reviewed at this time. All that needs to be said is that it was enjoyed and Mr. Jachia and his orchestra had a most appreciative audience. He in turn was generous with his encores, giving three. The first was after the Overture to William Tell, when they played the "Minuet for strings by Boccherini; the second after their delightful playing of the Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; the third at the close of "On the Beautiful Blue Danube," when they played one other popular Strauss waltz.

Mr. Jachia was recalled several times after the last number, but of course declined to give another selection which would have marred the grand finale, which was Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody. The program follows:

Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" Nicolai
Suite "Peer Gynt" Grieg
(a) Morning Mood
(b) Death of Asa
(c) Anitra's Dance
(d) In the Hall of the Mountain King
Fantasia from the opera "Carmen" Bizet
INTERMISSION
Overture to "William Tell" Rossini
Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Mendelssohn
"On the Beautiful Blue Danube" Strauss
Second Hungarian Rhapsody Liszt

The ushers were Messrs. Wadman, Daniel Hall Roger Hall, Max Simmons, Robert Wallace, Minot Edwards, Harry Johnson and Harry Taylor.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of Arlington Orthodox Congregational church was held in the vestry of the church on the evening of Friday, Jan. 28. The meeting was preceded by a supper served at 6.45 to nearly three hundred people, including committee and those serving at tables. Rarely if ever has so large a representation of church and society assembled for a meeting of this sort. That the supper was a fine one goes without saying. The reputation of the ladies of this church for serving the best ever was long ago established and is still maintained. The committee serving on this occasion was made up as follows:

The deacons' wives, who are Mrs. Myron Taylor, Mrs. Frederick B. Thompson, Mrs. Willard G. Rolfe, Mrs. John I. Peatfield, who secured the efficient help of Mrs. Calvin Warren (chairman), Miss Ednah Warren, Miss Helen Rolfe, Mrs. Frank J. Morse, Mrs. A. C. Cobb, Mrs. Benj. S. Moors, Mrs. Stanley E. Cook, Mrs. William Sinclair, Mrs. Val Hansen, Mrs. E. R. Harrington, Mrs. Henry W. Wells.

When the tables had been cleared away and seats arranged, the meeting was called to order and Clerk Stanley Cook called the roll, after which reports from the several departments of church work were presented and placed on file. The report of Mrs. Llewellyn McLean Evans for the Bradshaw Association was a concise statement of the activities and benevolences of this missionary branch of the church, with a total of money raised and spent exceeding that of the church itself. Supt. Boynton gave an outline of Sunday school work and made a plea for teachers to meet the demands of a growing school. The report for the Belfry class consisted of a grouping of epigrammatic sentences that brought smiles and subdued applause, but clearly outlined purposes and aims. Dr. Peatfield, treasurer of church funds, presented a detailed report, and other branches of church activities made verbal statements. It has been suggested that under new organization written reports to be placed on file be a part of the annual meeting a year hence.

At a previous meeting a committee had been chosen to consider advisability of incorporating the church to carry on all the business connected with the same. Of this committee, Rev. Don Ivan Patch was chairman and for his committee he reported in favor of such action. By unanimous vote the report was accepted and adopted. Mr. Henry A. Kidder was the moderator.

By official notice, a meeting of the church, to act on the report of this committee, to which reference has been made, had been called for this same evening, so a vote to take a recess was passed. The official meeting was then convened, Mr. Kidder being chosen by ballot, and Mr. Cook as clerk by the same process and sworn to a faithful performance of duty by Justice of the Peace Edward N. Lacey. The document under church incorporation could be accomplished was then presented by Mr. Patch, representing the long continued and careful work of a joint committee of church and society. It was voted to consider this document section by section, and with slight verbal changes and minor additions, from time to time, each was unanimously adopted. On motion it was then voted to accept form of organization and by-laws as a whole. Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell, pastor emeritus, was present and spoke in a complimentary way of the work of the committee in preparing the document.

The business of this official meeting culminated in the appointment of the four deacons of the church to serve as the nominating committee provided for in the by-laws, with instructions to report a full list of officers and committees at the adjourned meeting. The meeting then adjourned to Friday, Feb. 4, at 7.30 p. m. in the vestry.

HAS AMPLE SUPPLY OF WOOD

Berea College Owns Many Acres of Forest and Boasts It Never Cuts a Sound Timber.

Berea college, at the foot of the Cumberland mountains, in Kentucky, has the unique distinction of owning two mountains, 4,000 acres of forest, its own sawmill, but never cutting a sound tree, writes Marie Dickore in the American Forestry Magazine. This wood is used for the college, for power, for heat and in the many cozy fireplaces in the dormitories and in the great open fireplace which delights every traveler who stops at Boone tavern.

The sawmill, as well as the 4,000 acres of forest reserve, provides not only ample practical experience for the students, but also actual labor for those students who work for their education. The sawmill is operated by steam, and, like every other industry at Berea college, is run by students, who work at least two consecutive hours per day under the supervision of a superintendent of labor, who in turn is responsible to the dean of labor.

Students at Berea are given the opportunity to earn their expenses, and they may select the work, which is paid for at the regular rates according to the student's ability and efficiency. As every student in the college must work the minimum of two hours per day, suitable occupation must be provided by the dean of labor and in the forestry department the students are very happy patrolling the forest, marking the dead timber, hauling the fallen timber to the sawmill, cutting it there into the required lengths, and then hauling the logs to wherever needed on the campus. No sound timber is cut, as there is enough of the other to supply all needs.

UNEARTH SKELETON OF GIANT

Bones of Supposed Mound Builder
Those of Man Eight or Nine Feet High.

Dr. W. J. Holland, curator of the Carnegie museum, Pittsburgh, and his assistant, Dr. Peterson, a few days ago opened up a mound of the ancient race that inhabited this section and secured the skeleton of a man who when in the flesh was between eight and nine feet in height, says a Greensburg (Pa.) dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer.

This mound, which was originally about 100 feet long and more than 12 feet high, has been somewhat worn down by time. It is on the J. B. Secrist farm in South Huntington township. This farm has been in the Secrist name for more than a century.

The most interesting feature in the recent excavation was the mummified torso of the human body, which the experts figured was laid to rest at least 400 years ago. Portions of the bones dug up and the bones in the legs. Prof. Peterson declares, are those of a person between eight and nine feet in height. The scientific figures that this skeleton was the framework of a person of the prehistoric race that inhabited this section before the American Indians.

The torso and the portions of the big skeleton were shipped to the Carnegie museum. Drs. Holland and Peterson supervised the explorations on the Secrist mound with the greatest of care. The curators believe the man whose skeleton they secured belonged to the mound builder class.

Golf Ball Displayed Sense.

People who don't believe that golf balls have some sense of their own would stand small show just now in an argument with a player on the Romford links, who made a badly-sliced tee shot, which carried the ball across the roadway into the open upstairs window of a house.

When the golfer went to retrieve the ball he found it on the mat of the front door of the house, waiting for him like a good child. After entering the bedroom it had bounded out through the door and rolled downstairs to the mat.

The golfer says if it hadn't had sense it might have gone through a closed window, breaking the glass, and then stuck in the room, making all sorts of possible trouble for him. As it was, the people of the house were none the wiser for the trespass of the golf ball.—London Mail.

No More Tartan

It was bad enough when we lost the secret of how the pyramids were made, and now the Manchester Guardian raises a warning cry that we are about to lose the key to another of mankind's achievements rare. The war, it is said, wiped out the art of the Babas, the Flamande, the elclair. When rationing forbade pastry, 20,000 apprentices left the trade in France, and while making mud pies in the trenches, they quite forgot how to flute icings, and combine creams, and almond paste into the gateaux and tarts that made the pastry cooks of Paris famous. Whatever will the children do?

England Turns to Spanish.

A society craze for things Spanish seems to be imminent in England. Two Spanish plays are running in London and Spanish singers and dancers are in great demand. Many fashionable women are wearing the high Spanish comb and one sees tentative attempts at the mantilla, or mantilla effects. All the new fashionable dances are said to show distinct leanings toward Spanish interpretation.

entertainment was given in the vestry, arranged by Miss Anita Dale. Mrs. Laura Herring Kelley was heard in two groups of violin numbers accompanied at the piano by Miss Dale; Mr. Stetson Humphrey sang baritone solo, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Edward Ryan. This was the first time that Mr. Humphrey has sung in Lexington, and he was greatly enjoyed. Although not on the program, Miss Dale, by request, sang a contralto solo, that added a good deal of pleasure to the evening. Another feature was recitations by Barbara Hargenburger. Altogether it was an occasion that was most satisfactory in every particular.

The other fire was on Bedford street, at the estate of William A. Rice, and it threatened his garage. This was quickly extinguished, with no property damage. The first alarm for the Bedford street fire came in about a quarter of two, box at the corner of Bedford and Revere streets being sounded. He brought the pupils to Lexington in the hopes of arousing the interest of our citizens in this special educational work. The children, who were heard in violin, piano and vocal numbers, ranged in ages from six to eighteen years, and they gave a program of over an hour in length that was greatly enjoyed. THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

It would seem as though an organized force was at work through newspapers and magazines to create a public sentiment against constitutional prohibition of manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. Of course the attack is on the bill which provides for enforcement of the prohibitory amendment, but the purpose is transparently clear.

The method pursued is to magnify violations of the law, call attention to increased arrests for drunkenness, larger number of deaths caused by alcohol, patients sent to hospitals from same cause. Supplementary to these are articles claiming interference with personal liberty; futility of legislation as a method controlling habit; others along similar lines.

We do not propose to argue the matter along any of these lines. Where there is prejudice, argument is more than useless. But we do ask our readers to consider a few things that have a bearing on the question whether or no the prohibition of the liquor traffic works for the good or evil of the people of this country.

It would be an easy matter to show that the quantity of intoxicating liquor disposed of the past year bears but small relation to sales in years prior to the adoption of the amendment under consideration; that having no place in which to remain while the effects of liquor can be worked or slept off of necessity lands drinkers in the streets to be picked up by the first policeman encountered; that the stuff now sold very often proves a quick poison so that the victim must be treated in hospital. All of these can be given as reasons why fair judgment against the enforcement law on these grounds is an impossibility.

The fair question is, what has been generally the effect of the law? Business men and visitors in any city licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors in preceding years will recall the large number of people seen lined up in barrooms and saloons. Such scenes are no longer possible. Is it likely that any large number of patrons of these places now take the trouble or spend the money it costs to procure liquor? No. The temptation has been removed by elimination. But, best of all, note the change wrought in Boston with which thousands are familiar. Instead of the barroom, now find the eating house, the lunch counter, the candy store, or some business enterprise that gives something of value for money received.

Is it not something to be grateful for that thousands of women who were not so long ago obliged to add to the household cares the earning of money at menial employments because so large a share of the money paid to the proper wage-earner was each week expended for drinks which hindered instead of helped, is rarely now necessary, for the reason that the father now applies his weekly wage to the needs of his family, now well clothed and shod?

We have no fear that a repeal of the amendment can be accomplished. We believe it has a larger endorsement than when it was made a part of the organic law of the land. What we do want to suggest is that the vast amount of good accomplished in this short period of general restriction shall be kept in mind when reading about where it has not brought ideal conditions; to bring home to the hearts and consciences of all that the answer is always and ever yes, to the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

The third in the series of public lectures at Tufts College will be given in Packard Hall at 8 o'clock on the evening of Feb. 9. The speaker is Prof. W. R. Ranson, who will discuss Einstein's theory of relativity of gravitation. The talk will be an intimate rather than a formal character and questions and discussion will be welcome. It is suggested that those having books or articles dealing with the subject bring them for the benefit of others who may not know where further information can be obtained.

This week Gov. Cox issued a proclamation for a Lincoln Day observance on Feb. 12. We trust that in our public schools there will be a fitting observance of the birthday anniversary of the one typical American.

President-elect Harding has made the customary request for the calling of a special session of the U. S. Senate on March 4, to confirm Cabinet and other appointments in connection with the incoming new administration.

The extent to which the coal combination mulched New England is somewhat revealed in investigation at Washington. More than double the immense amount sent abroad the year preceding was sold in Europe in 1920, creating the shortage that pushed prices skyward.

Nothing has shown more clearly the inability of the government at Washington to function harmoniously than the case of Donald O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, Ireland, here in defiance of law, aided in accomplishing his purpose in coming by one department against protest from one supposed to be of higher authority, and now left practically free. Is it any wonder that people long for the coming of March 4.

THE FOX HUNT.

Monday was an ideal day for the fox hunt planned and held under the auspices of the Middlesex Sportsman's Association and upward of fifty members of the association started out early on that morning in various directions to try and land a fox pelt before darkness set in. Some of the hunters went as far as Andover, some went to Belmont, Lexington and Bedford, while others went to Billerica and along the Concord river. When the hunters came into the club house at dark, all were of the opinion, that the day had done them a world of good. There were no pelts for the day, but then the hunters were just as much pleased. They had had some very fine runs, shot many times at fleeing foxes and had a wonderful day in the open. The woods, after the storm of Sunday night, were mantled with white, the air brisk and conditions just right for tracking foxes.

The most exciting hunt of the day was that of the party going to Andover. Here three foxes were started and the dogs had a wonderful run. To those who have not followed the dogs the music of the dog in full tilt after a fox does not mean anything, but to the group of hunters that morning it was real music to their ears. The entire party evidently was made up of poor shots, or else they were firing blank shells, for at least twelve shots were taken at these foxes, but not one hit the marks.

The party going to the section around the Belmont Spring Country Club had one good run for a short time before the fox went to cover. The men then tramped across country to Bedford, where ordinarily there are many foxes, but they did not see even a track. The Billerica party saw tracks, but did not see any foxes and the dogs did not start anything for a run. At dark the hunters returned to the club house on the shore of Spy Pond, where a red hot supper was waiting, furnished by the Hardy Catering Company of this town. Dr. H. B. Osgood of Lexington had general charge of the hunt and he was assisted by a large committee from the association. The supper was an informal affair and the evening was given over to stories of the hunt and a general good time.

ARLINGTON MEN'S CLUB.

The January meeting of Arlington Men's Club was not only unique but something quite unusual. At six o'clock on Monday evening a large percentage of the membership met at Regent Theatre, where they were interested and instructed regarding the Argentine Republic by Mr. J. E. Scanlon of the First National Bank of Boston, who used moving pictures in illustrating his graphic description of this South American republic. The majority present had many surprises, few having any adequate conception either of the immense area included in the boundaries of the Argentine, the size of its cities, the broad sweeps of agricultural sections or the up to date buildings adorning the broad avenues on which they stand. By comparison, the United States is not as big as we have thought, and is not a head of the procession in many things of which we speak with pride. The members are indebted to Mr. Scanlon for a most enjoyable educational experience.

At the conclusion of the lecture the members assembled at the vestry of the Orthodox Congregational church, where the usual supper was served. When the tables were cleared, Mr. Scanlon gave additional information regarding Argentina and Mr. Walter A. Robinson told of his recent visit to France as the head of a committee to investigate and report on the way the bodies of dead soldiers are being cared for. Through letters printed in these columns, and official report given space in Boston papers, the facts he gave are more or less familiar to all, but what Mr. Robinson told of his personal experiences gave fresh color to the story. Rev. S. C. Bushnell, who started the club and was chairman of the executive committee up to the time of his removal to New Haven, was a welcome guest on this occasion and as usual charmed all with what he had to offer in a brief address, which naturally took its tone from the rather unusual events of the evening.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS.

The open winter has saved the surface railroads the expenditure of big sums paid last winter for removal of snow.

Reports from Detroit indicate anything but harmony in the directorship of the immense Ford Auto Co. Another bunch of directors tendered resignations on Monday.

Prest. Wilson has refused to pardon Eugene Debs as urged in a numerous signed petition, endorsed by Attorney-General Palmer. The defiant attitude of the prisoner was the determining factor.

Frederick H. Parkhurst, inaugurated Governor of Maine on Jan. 6, died last Monday from a diphtheritic infection. He is succeeded in office by P. P. Baxter of Portland, President of the State Senate.

Conviction of Victor L. As a disloyal person, Berger was expelled from Congress.

Emma Goldman, who is over there and knows all about it by personal experience, says that she would rather be in jail in America than free in Soviet Russia. Yet some of our parlor Bolsheviks keep on insisting that we cannot be saved unless we adopt Bolshevism and all its works.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS.

—This (Friday) afternoon the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. F. J. Harling, 53 Westmoreland avenue.

—Next Sunday morning reception of members will be observed in the Methodist church. In the evening a lecture illustrated by stereopticon will be given by the pastor, Rev. E. R. Leach.

—Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin will be the speaker at the meeting of the Cantabrigia Club, Cambridge, Feb. 18. Mrs. Dallin's subject will be "The Making of a Bronze Statue," and will be illustrated.

—Friday evening Mr. C. E. Gale of Belmont was pleasantly surprised by a group of friends who chose this way to show their esteem for his friendship by celebrating his birthday anniversary in an evening delightfully passed and enjoyed by all. There were four tables for bridge, the prizes being awarded as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Mead, first; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill, second; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vaughn, third; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schnetzer, consolation. After dancing had been enjoyed, a delicious spread was served in the dining room. Each guest brought a joke gift which contributed much to the fun of the occasion. Those who attended were the H. H. Stinsons, the Walter Vaughns, the Oscar Schnetzers, the J. H. Meads, the E. W. Byrams, Mr. H. H. Kendall, Mr. Herbert Kendall, Miss Alice Kendall of the Heights, the Frank Merrills of Winchester, the Fred Harlows of Brookline.

—Miss Edna Byram entertained twenty-two couples at a supper and dance Saturday evening at her attractive home on 26 Florence avenue in honor of her sixteenth birthday. The color scheme was pink, which was carried out in the decorations of the rooms, and the appointments of the supper tables, eleven in number. Pink roses were arranged with charming effect in the living and music rooms. On each table was a dainty bud vase, the place cards, punch and cream following the prevailing color. After supper dancing was enjoyed, the musicians (piano and traps) being stationed in the hall, leaving the music and living rooms free for this pleasure. One of the chief attractions of the evening was a gypsy fortune teller, who in fact drew many from the dancing in their eagerness to peer into the future. Mrs. H. Luther Sherman, one of the society matrons at the Heights, in costume, acted as the fortune teller. The guests united in congratulating Miss Byram on her skill as a hostess, for each one thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

—A moving picture entertainment was given Saturday evening in Crescent Hall, under the auspices of the Locke School Association, with trio music furnished by Heights talent. The association is undertaking a work that promises to be of great benefit to the community in the future. Their motive is not only to raise money for the Locke School Association, but to provide a place of entertainment for the boys of this vicinity, thus keeping them off the streets, also to provide clean pictures that their parents would be willing to approve for their entertainment. Another worthy purpose of the association is to organize an orchestra composed of young people in this section to furnish music at the entertainments. This would give an opportunity for them to obtain orchestral practice. It is also planned to rent the moving picture machine to clubs and churches at the Heights, which would enable them to raise money for their various activities. The association should be encouraged in this undertaking by the residents of the Heights. The project is worthy of generous, enthusiastic support, especially as there is no moving-picture theatre in this vicinity.

—Mrs. Charles Harvey entertained at a dancing party given for her son Kenneth, Saturday evening, at her home, 43 Linden street. Fourteen guests were bidden, including members of Miss Cooledge's dancing class only. The decorations, which were unusually pretty and arranged with taste, were suggestive of St. Valentine's day. The dance orders were pink and white heart shaped cards. There were two elimination dances with prizes, which were awarded to Dorothy Littlefield, Robert Weaver, Charlotte Hickey and Wallace Cooledge. Several favor dances, a balloon dance, one with celluloid balls and one with Japanese fans for the girls and whistles for the boys were danced with charming grace. The guests then matched hearts to find their partners for supper. The boys with pink paper caps with arrows and the girls with white paper caps with hearts, marched to an upper apartment, where refreshments were served at an attractively decorated table. The centre piece was a fancy pink and white basket decorated with hearts and kewpies, from which ribbons extended to each place. When drawn by the guests they brought from the basket chocolate cigars for the boys and a nail set for the girls. The place cards were kewpies and small celluloid, pink clad kewpies hung from the lights. Nut baskets in chrysanthemum shape were prettily designed. Ice cream, macaroons, fancy cakes and candies were served. A prettier party has not been given for some time at the Heights and to say the children enjoyed it is expressing it very mildly.

—This (Friday) evening, the Dorcas circle of the Methodist church is giving a pound party at the home of Mrs. James Wilson, Wilson avenue, East Lexington.

—Early Wednesday morning the firemen were called out for box 71, the fire being in the Deihl house, off Mass. avenue. The fire had evidently started from the stove and had worked up through the walls to the roof before it was discovered. The loss was small.

—Harmony Circle of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the Somerville home of Mrs. Duncan Matthews. It was to give members an opportunity to say farewell to Mrs. Seitz, who is leaving Arlington for the West.

—The monthly business meeting of the Woman's Society of the Baptist church was held at the home of Mrs. A. T. Brown, 1188 Mass. avenue, this week. After business was transacted, the afternoon was spent in finishing the work for the Red Cross quota. A large number was present. Refreshments were served.

—Goodly sized audiences greeted the new pastor at the Baptist church last Sunday, both morning and evening. There were two helpful sermons. Mr. Davis began last Sunday as teacher of the Men's Bible class. For several weeks previous to the coming of Mr. Davis, the Men's class was taught by Mr. Arthur Clare of the First Baptist church, Arlington. His work as teacher has been much appreciated.

—The third and last subscription concert at the Park Avenue Congregational church, Arlington Heights, will be held Monday evening, Feb. 14. The concert will be given by the Schubert Club of seventy-five male voices assisted by a male reader and a soprano. This should be from all reports that the committee can secure, the best concert of the series and "standing room" only is looked for.

—About fifty members of the Baptist church gave the new pastor, Rev. Reuben Davis, a house warming and shower, Wednesday evening, at his home, Park avenue north. The shower consisted of groceries, canned goods and all kinds of good things, for the pantry. It was quite a surprise to the pastor and everyone had a jolly good time playing games and singing. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Andrew Freeman and Mrs. J. W. Hovey were in charge of the affair.

—The music, at the Sunday morning services in Park Avenue Congregational church, is attracting much favorable comment. The quartet, with the following personnel, soprano, Mrs. J. Herbert Mead; alto, Mrs. H. H. Stinson; tenor, Mr. C. Frederic Evans; bass, Mr. Harvey D. Bodwell, gives its ensemble work not only with smoothness of blending voice parts but with unusual unity of shading. Miss Rita Slack, the organist, in bringing out the various beautiful tone colors of the organ through her artistic performance, increases the appreciation of the parish for the instrument recently installed.

—Forty-eight persons attended the luncheon held at the home of Mrs. Eli Roberts, Cliff street, East Lexington, Tuesday, from twelve until two in the afternoon. Corned beef, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, apple and mince pie with beverages were served. The committee in charge included Mrs. Roberts, chairman; Mrs. A. Moore, Mrs. M. Stockbridge, Mrs. I. Smith, Mrs. J. Senadough, Mrs. W. Walte. Luncheon was followed by the monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church. At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served. The ladies had a most pleasant time.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Fifty years ago last Monday, Jan. 31, 1871, Joseph Zeman and Miss Josephine Opal were married in South Boston. Last Monday evening the golden anniversary was observed at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. H. Miller on Williams street, Arlington Heights, the couple receiving many beautiful mementoes of the day. Upward of 150 relatives and friends of the couple came either during the day or evening to extend their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Zeman. The Miller home was handsomely arranged and decorated in honor of the occasion, white and gold being much in evidence. The gifts showered upon the couple were many and prominent among them was a purse of gold from the family. Mr. and Mrs. Zeman were assisted in receiving by their three daughters, Mrs. A. Blanchard of Somerville, Mrs. Elizabeth Leahy of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Miller. The reception was more or less informal. During the evening an orchestra furnished music for the party and many of the guests contributed both in strumental as well as vocal music. A supper was served during the latter part of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Zeman are both natives of Bohemia and have been in this country for upward of sixty years. For twenty years after they were married they made their home in South Boston, where they had many warm friends. Thirty years ago, when Arlington Heights was in the pioneer stage, the couple came here to make their home and have been here ever since. In the section in which they make their home they are known to everyone and enjoy the friendship of all. Besides the three daughters mentioned above, there are two sons, Francis and Joseph Zeman, both of whom are in the south. There are eighteen grandchildren.

The reception committee was Mrs. Ernest Southwick, Mrs. T. L. Lewis, Mrs. Warren N. Bixby. *The candidates of the Girls' Friendly Society (Church of Our Saviour) were privileged on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 27, in hearing a most interesting talk on missionary work among the American Indians, given by Miss Perkins, of Brookline, interested in and connected with the Girls' Friendly Society. She was for two years at the Wyoming Reservation. The Indian though savage in the early history of our country, has possessed nobility of character and been sincere in his friendships. In the Revolutionary days the Indians perpetrated deeds of cruelty but mainly through the influence of the famous "blue eyed Indians," Mrs. Robert C. Friery, candidate associate, was in charge of the afternoon. Refreshments were served. Miss Perkins added to the interest of her talk by showing pictures on the subject.

*Mr. Aubrey F. Brown passed away Wednesday morning, January 26 at the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, following an operation which was performed at that hospital shortly before. Mr. Brown had a host of friends not only because of his genial, helpful disposition but also because of his prominence in church, business and social activities. He was born in Milton, N. S., the son of Richard and Augusta Hardy Brown. Mr. Brown resided at 26 Garrison avenue, West Somerville, but he gave his loyal support to the Trinity Baptist church, of which church he had been a member twelve years, and acting deacon eight years. He was a member of the Transit Club, the Masons, Odd Fellows and the Eastern Star. He was supervisor of Division 4 of the Boston Elevated Railway Co. So great was his popularity in all branches of the service that on Friday (the day preceding the funeral services) the body lay in state from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon at W. A. Frink's undertaking rooms in order that those men employed by the Boston Elevated who would be unable to attend the funeral services held at Trinity Baptist church on Saturday might have a last opportunity to look upon his face. Mr. Brown is survived by a wife, three sons and a daughter. Funeral services were held in Trinity Baptist church, Saturday afternoon, at 2.30, with Rev. A. E. Kenyon, pastor of the church, officiating. Mrs. Mabel Farrow rendered vocal selections bringing comfort and help to the family. The pall bearers represented each branch of the Elevated service in which Mr. Brown had been employed. There was a large delegation present from the Elevated and his Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges. The many floral offerings made a beautiful display evidencing the affection and esteem in which he was held. Private services for the family preceded the church services in his late home, 26 Garrison avenue, West Somerville. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

The next meeting of the literature class will be held Monday afternoon, Feb. 7, at 2.30, at Mrs. Coleman's, 128 Pleasant street. The subject will be "Galsworthy."

Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 3.30, in the Junior High School hall. This course is free to all citizens of the town, men as well as women. Mrs. Boyer is a most interesting speaker, and all who can possibly do so are urged to hear her. The subject will be "State Government." The afternoon will be in charge of Mrs. Charles A. Dennett, Mrs. Harold B. Wood, and Mrs. Herbert Boynton. The music committee also announces that it has been fortunate enough to arrange a wonderful musical program for children, to be given by Mr. Guy Meyer, on Saturday afternoon, March 26, at 2.30, in Robbins' Memorial Town Hall. The tickets will be placed on sale in all the schools, and the children will be given the first refusal of them. If any tickets remain, they may be purchased by club members. Twenty-five scouts were present and were also viewed by fifteen other visitors. After inspection basketball games were played with the teams of Troop 6, Troop 1 winning both senior and junior matches. The Senior game was fast and close throughout, with Troop 1 holding the advantage because of its superior passing game, winning 16 to 13. For the winners Watson starred in the attack and Walker and Armstrong in the defence. For the losers the work of Hadley and Chamberlain was notably good. The junior teams played an even closer game, Troop 1 winning by a score of 3 to 1. A return match will be played later on in the season.

John Burnham of 501 Massachusetts avenue reported to the police on Saturday that while he was skating on Spy Pond some one stole his overcoat valued at $40.00.

Once more the clothes line thief has appeared in town, this time visiting the yard of F. Victor Henset, 20 Henderson street, and taking several articles of wearing apparel from the lines of family wash that had been left out after dark.

Adams and LaBrique had very little trouble in winning their special ten string bowling match Thursday evening, Jan. 27, on the Arlington Alleys, their contestants being Ellis and Turk, two well known bowlers. Adams rolled 1011 and LaBrique 1023, for a total of 2034, while Ellis and Turk rolled 1005 each.

Last Friday evening in Knights of Columbus Hall, John Hancock Council of the A. A. R. I. R. held a well attended meeting, the speakers being D. W. Callaghan, president of Col. James Barrett Council of Arlington Heights, Tarak Nath Das, an India student at Harvard, and Hon. J. M. G. Fay.

The second series of games in a tournament between the Olympia Club of Somerville and the Arlington Gas Employees' Association were played in the recreation rooms of the gas company last Thursday evening, and resulted in a tie, as follows:—For Somerville Tolman won two and tied one; Morris lost three; Bradley won two and lost one; For Arlington, Goss won two and lost one; Snow won one, lost one and tied one; Shea won one and lost two.

A number of young people tendered Arthur E. Clare, Jr., a complete surprise party at his home, 11 Jason terrace, Jan. 27. The party was made up of young people from Woburn, Arlington, Medford and Boston, and after all had assembled, Miss Pauline Clare, in behalf of the party, presented Arthur with a gold watch chain. The evening was passed in playing games and instrumental and vocal numbers by many of the party. A buffet luncheon closed the evening.

A general shift was made in the team of the Community Club of Arlington bowling league in the matches rolled on the Arlington Alleys last Friday night, and now the teams are fixed for the tournament which will run until spring. Fowle of Team 4 was the big man of the night, his single string of 113 being the best and his three strings of 323 also being the best for the night and the best of the tournament thus far. Team four made a good start by taking four points from Team Three and Team Six did the same to Team Five. Team Two took three from Team One.

A well attended dancing party was held in Town Hall last Friday evening, the affair being under the auspices of St. Malachi Court, M. C. O. F. of this town. The management of the party is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the affair was conducted. The music was of the best and that the dancers enjoyed the music was shown by their repeated call for encores, which were freely given. The members had a number of guests from out of town, as well as district deputies and officials of the order. P. C. R. Thomas F. Kenney was chairman of the affair, Mrs. Margaret Cadagan, secretary, and Mrs. Augustus F. Crowley, treasurer, assisted by every member of the local court as general committee.

Miss Grace Leach O'Brien, for a number of years a member of the clerical staff of W. J. McDonald's office in Boston and well known among real estate and law offices as a stenographer and typist of ability, died at her home, 47 Palmer street, Thursday night of last week, following an illness of more than a year. Miss O'Brien was born in Pawtucket, R. I., the daughter of John J. and Della Leach O'Brien. She was educated in the convent of St. Joseph, West Roxbury, graduating from there in 1909. In her profession she quickly became invaluable to her employers, and was considered an expert in real estate conveyances. Besides her mother, Miss O'Brien is survived by a brother, Hubert O'Brien. The funeral took place on Monday morning from St. Joseph's church, West Roxbury.

A clever burglar, or burglars, visited town Thursday evening of last week, and no less than four breaks were made, one of them netting the thief quite a haul. These breaks were all made during the early part of the evening, being estimated at around 6.30. In all cases the people were at home. The burglar entered through a window, secured the valuables and got away, without the people in the next room to where he was working hearing him. In the home of Raymond Proctor on 28 Everett street, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor were entertaining company not more than three feet away from the room where the articles were taken. Apparently the thief worked from the center toward Cambridge, judging from the manner in which the police received the telephone calls. Alfred T. Marston of 28 Hopkins road was the first one to ring up. A window in his apartment had been forced and money and jewelry to the amount of about $84 were taken. A jimmy was used on the window, but the job was noiseless. Next the apartment of Mrs. James Hill in the "Florence" was visited, entrance being gained through a window. Here jewelry valued at about $263.00 was stolen and money was taken from the pocketbook of Mrs. Sarah D. Jackson of Brighton, who was calling. The Proctor house did not get as much as others to the thief, probably because the family was so close to the room. A window in the bed room was opened and then the thief "ashed" out a handbag which contained five dollars and a fountain pen valued at ten dollars. The bag was found later. Evidently the last break was in the home of Andrew Grovo, 4 Thorndike street, where two watches and ten dollars were taken. No trace was left and the police are trying to locate the jewelry through the pawn shops.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Gould's sermon next Sunday at the Universalist church will be "the stewardship of the personal life."

Last Thursday afternoon an alarm was sent in from box 214 for a grass fire, calling all the apparatus of this town and some from Somerville. A telephone call to the Central Fire Station could have avoided all this confusion.

The break in the weather Sunday put an end for a time to the wonderful skating which the young people have enjoyed. Skating in springlike weather was indeed a great treat and day and night Spy pond was well populated with skaters, old and young.

By a change in the running time of the cars of the Boston Elevated, effective Sunday, the cars now run from Arlington Heights to Harvard square only. The Watertown lines will be operated from North Cambridge car barns. There will be as many cars from here as were on the old schedule only they will make Harvard square their terminal.

Mathew Callahan, for twenty years janitor at the Cutter School, died in the Carney Hospital on Thursday of last week, a few hours after his arrival at the hospital. Mr. Callahan was a life long resident of this town, being born here 62 years ago. In early life he was employed in the Boston Market and there had many warm friends. In 1901 he was appointed janitor of the Cutter school building, and during his years of faithful service he endeared himself to all. With the children he was always a great favorite and with them Mr. Callahan was ever popular. Among the teaching force of the school he was well liked, his ever-pleasant manner, systematic running of the school and prompt attendance, winning their high esteem. Mr. Callahan took great pride in his school and worked hard to make it neat and clean, both inside and out. Failing health made it necessary for him to give up some months ago, and since then he had been confined much of the time to his home, where the loving care of his wife, made things comfortable for him. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, services being held in St. Agnes Church and conducted by the pastor, Rev. Matthew J. Flaherty. Monday morning in St. Agnes church a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Flaherty and attended by a number of teachers from the Cutter school. Besides his wife, he is survived by a brother, Michael E. Callahan, janitor of the Locke school.

There have been some hard-fought, fast basketball games played here in times past, but the game played here last Thursday evening in the Old Town Hall, between the local five and the Belmont town team, capped all previous games. The Belmont team is a team with a reputation and Arlington gave them the first beating of the season. Both teams played hard, clean and excellent basketball. It was a game that was full of thrills and both teams were put to their best. Arlington won out by the narrow margin of 33 to 29, leading by a small margin all through the game. Belmont has a good team, so has Arlington, and the fact that these two teams were to play, brought out a crowd that taxed the hall to its capacity and every available space was taken. "Wing" McCarthy, the rangy center of Arlington, tallied 23 of the points for Arlington, his team mates playing a grand passing game to him. Ryan, Coughlin and Cadagan were point winners also. The summary of the game is as follows:—

Mrs. Bertha Taylor Goodridge, a former resident of this town, is meeting with great success as a teacher of salesmanship in the Portland, Me., Evening school, where she has been a teacher for the past two years. In addition to teaching the evening school Mrs. Goodridge is teacher in the day school. The Portland Herald of recent date gives the school a good writeup, and speaking of Mrs. Goodridge's department has this to say:—

One of the "peppiest" courses offered is that in salesmanship by Mrs. Goodridge. The line of instruction given in this course can best be outlined by the following paragraph which the writer heard a group of eager, earnest young men and women recite with force and feeling that indicated that the sentiment had taken entire possession of them:—

"I believe in the goods I am selling. In the firm I am working for and in my ability to get results. I believe that honest goods can be sold by honest methods. I believe in working, not waiting; in laughing, not weeping; in boosting, not knocking; and in the pleasure of selling goods. I believe that a man gets what he goes after, that one order-to-day is worth two to-morrow, and that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself. I believe in to-day and the work I am doing and in to-morrow and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward which the future holds. I believe in courtesy, kindness and generosity, in good cheer and in friendship and honest competition. I believe that there is an order somewhere for every man ready to take. I believe I am ready right now."

—A successful whist party was held in K. of C. Hall last Friday evening, under the direction of Lexington Council, No. 94, Knights of Columbus. The affair had been postponed from the night before. Miss Helen Ready won the ladies' prize, and James O'Connor took the men's prize. The committee in charge was made up of Timothy Kinneen, chairman; Don F. Ross, James McKenzie and Frank Ready.

—The bowling team of the Middlesex Sportsman's Association in the Amateur Boston Pin League series was holding first place at the end of the last week, being four points ahead of Oxford, the holders of second place. In this league Baker now holds the high individual score with 115. In the Newton league the team is still in third place, with only one point between them and first place Cohasset and Newton being tied for first place. Yeager holds the high individual score with 114.

—The adjourned annual meeting of Arlington Orthodox Society convenes on Monday evening, Feb. 7, in the church parlor at 7.30. The business of the meeting will be consideration of the report of a committee chosen to confer with a committee of the church on a proposed form of incorporation. In the event of the adoption of the report of its committee, which unanimously favors such action, the entire membership of the society becomes a part of the incorporation. Most churches in the South Middlesex Conference conduct business on the incorporated plan and have found in it a marked advantage over the old-time dual method.

—Sixty-five pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ben Ellen of Huntington Chambers and Arlington gave a recital Monday evening in Huntington Chambers Hall, before a capacity audience. Arlington was represented by thirty-seven pupils. The audience was a most appreciative one, and there was surely reason for enthusiasm. Each pupil played artistically, and gave their numbers with thoughtful interpretation. A feature of the program was the Chopin Scherzo in B flat minor, played by Mr. Ellen. It was masterfully handled and was accorded prolonged applause. Miss Leone Marquis won generous praise with her vocal numbers.

—Next Monday, Feb. 7, will be a marked day for all the women of the First Universalist church (also men who may attend) and all interested in missionary work. On that date the mission circle of this church will entertain all other similar organizations in Arlington and circles from neighboring Universalist churches. Mrs. John E. Merrill, the wife of the president of Central College, Aintab, Turkey, will tell, out of personal experience, of conditions, needs, opportunities, Christian work and education of that part of the world to whose orphan children the local church has contributed over $1000 during the past year.

—A resident of Grove street rode on his motorcycle to Spy Pond last Saturday to enjoy an afternoon of skating. He removed his shoes and rubbers and put on his shoe skates. In order to hide his footwear from view, he placed the same under an old overcoat which he had worn to the pond. The young man sported around for some time, and when he wanted to go home he discovered that someone had stolen his shoes and rubbers, leaving the overcoat. Luckily for him he had his motorcycle, and was not forced to walk home in his stocking feet. The windy winds were telling on his stockinged feet, and so he took off his woolen mittens from his hands and put them on his feet, arriving home in this fashion on the motorcycle just at dark.

—The Japanese luncheon to be given in the vestry of the Orthodox Congregational church on Friday, Feb. 25th, bids fair to be quite one of the social events of the season. The vestries will be decorated to represent a Japanese garden and the whole decorative scheme will have a decided Japanese atmosphere. Luncheon will be served from small tables, and the waitresses will be in Japanese costume. The committee in charge of decorations and the luncheon is as follows: Mrs. D. Thomas Percy, Mrs. Wm. M. Hatch, Mrs. William E. Hardy, Mrs. Rodney T. Hardy, Mrs. Charles H. Doty, Mrs. W. K. Cook, Mrs. C. D. Cobb, Mrs. Fred N. Bennett, Mrs. Morton C. Bradley, Mrs. Charles F. Winner, Mrs. Gorham H. Davis, Miss Elsie M. Parker, Miss Grace Parker. After the luncheon a concert will be given under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Kahari, the educational director for the Chickering Piano and Ampico. Mrs. Kahari will give a lecture on music, which will be illustrated by selections played on the Ampico and Miss Edith Bullard, soprano soloist, will sing. Such well known critics as Philip Hale, H. T. Parker and Olin Downes have spoken in the Boston papers in highest praise of the Ampico, which is a reproducing piano. Mrs. Kahari will be remembered as having been the assistant musical director in Arlington public schools some two years ago and the author of those charming music stories that appeared each week in the Advocate, one winter. Tickets for the luncheon and concert may be had of the above mentioned ladies, also of Mrs. Ernest R. Kimball, president of the Bradshaw Missionary Association, under whose auspices the affair is given, also of Mrs. E. E. Bacon and other members of the association. The luncheon is limited and already a large number of the tickets have been sold.

—On Tuesday morning we had a call from Mr. Henry Frost of 289 Pleasant street, Belmont, at the Advocate office. Mr. Frost is one of the long-time subscribers of the Advocate, and for many years has made the editors an annual visit to renew his subscription. He will be ninety years old come next September and except for a slight deafness and eyesight somewhat dimmed, he is in remarkably splendid health. Usually he walks from his home in Belmont to Arlington when he has occasion to come and enjoys the exercise.

—A delightful program of folk song music has been arranged by the committee, Mrs. C. A. Dennett, Mrs. H. W. Boynton, Mrs. H. B. Wood of the Music department of the Woman's Club, to be given at the home of Mrs. James A. Bailey, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 10, at 3 o'clock. Folk songs of England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany and America (both Indian and colored) will be sung by Miss E. Lillian Evans, soprano; Mrs. George E. Stokes, mezzo soprano; Olga K. Mansfield, contralto; Mr. Garvin B. Waldron, tenor. Mrs. James A. Bailey and Mrs. C. A. Dennett will play four-hand music. The program is further enriched by a paper on folk songs written by Mrs. Boynton; trios sung by Mrs. Stokes, Miss Evans and Mrs. Mansfield and a duet for the soprano and tenor voices.

—The hall of St. Agnes school was filled to its capacity on Monday evening at a whist party for the parish fund. The proceeds of the affair were large and the souvenirs for the best scores were handsome. Miss Josephine Lane was chairman of the general committee, being assisted by a considerable number of the women of the parish. During the early part of the evening there were orchestral numbers by John Kelley, Miss Alice Melley and Robert Ahern, also vocal selections by Mrs. Thomas O'Brien and Mr. Guyer. The souvenirs for the best scores at whist were awarded to Miss Annie Toand, Mrs. John Carey, Mrs. Mary Alexander, Mrs. M. J. O'Keefe, John B. Byrne, M. J. O'Keefe, Arthur Coughlin, Harold McCarthy, Mrs. John Curran and Miss Fitzgerald. Each one at the party was given a number and during the evening a selected number to draw a box of candy. Miss Annie Sheehan held the lucky number.

—Cambridge Latin gave our High Ice hockey team a 7-to-1 beating at Cambridge on Tuesday afternoon. In the interscholastic league series. From the start the Cambridge boys had the jump on Arlington and piled up six tallies in the first period of the game. Arlington did not play its game as usual, there seemed to be something wrong, but it was one of those off days that are hard to account for. Cambridge used up a great many fresh players in their effort to win and the last half of the game was a stiff fight, but Arlington came back too late to count for much. The score:—

—Neighbors and friends of Mrs. Herbert S. Kelley of Hopkins road will sympathize with her in the sudden bereavement that has come to her in the death of her mother, Mrs. Hattie E. Clark early Monday evening, Jan. 31st. Mrs. Clark has made her home with Mrs. Kelley since the death of the latter's husband, which occurred just a year ago this week. On the evening of her death Mrs. Clark had started out to attend the Regent Theatre when she was taken suddenly ill near Arlington Center. A taxi was called and she was taken to her daughter's home and the family physician called but she passed away just before his arrival, death being due to heart disease. Mrs. Clark was born in Waltham July 9th, 1863, a daughter of Frank and Annie Tower. Four years ago her husband, William Lowell Clark passed away in Waltham, where he was an influential citizen and a prominent grocer of the city. Mrs. Clark has been a source of great comfort to her daughter during this past year coming to her at the time when she was prostrated by the death of Mr. Kelley and in her home Mrs. Clark has been a great comfort. She was a woman of refinement and pleasing personality and had made friends here in Arlington who will learn of her death with regret. The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from Mrs. Kelley's home. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. Mr. McCarthy, minister of the Unitarian church, in Watertown. The interment was in the family lot in Waltham. Besides

The contests Monday resulted in the Elks winning 57 games, bringing their total for the season to 471; the K. of C. won 48 games, bringing their total to 520 and winning the tournament. —In spite of the disagreeable day, there was a large audience present on last Sunday morning, at the Orthodox Congregational church, to greet Rev. S. C. Bushnell, pastor emeritus, who preached the sermon. It was one of the best ever given by Mr. Bushnell in Arlington, teeming with that feeling of brotherly love that has dominated the life of Mr. Bushnell and so made him an inspiration and help wherever he goes. At its close many remained to clasp his hand and to speak a word of greeting to their friend and former pastor. Mrs. Bushnell and daughter, Miss Alice, were present at the service, and come in for their share of the greeting of friends. During the past week the Bushnells have been entertained at dinner and otherwise by others in town besides Mr. William A. Muller, at whose residence the Bushnells have been guests for the past ten days.

Miss Florence Tucker gave a violin selection accompanied at the piano by Miss Belyea and the evening closed with a clever skit, which was a play on words, arranged by Mrs. Samuel T. —A small informal dance was given last Friday evening, in Associates Hall, by the girls of the Sachem camp fire. —The many friends of our oldest native-born fellow-townsmen, Mr. E. Nelson Blake, will be pleased to learn that he is much better than he was a few weeks ago and that he is down stairs each day. Next Wednesday, February 9, will be his 90th birthday. While it will not be wise for him to see many callers, it is safe to say that the letter carrier will not miss any of his regular trips that day.

—The second concert in the Arlington Teachers' Association course was given Thursday evening in Town Hall. The talent was the Wallaston Glee Club, with J. A. Crowley, conductor, assisted by Walter M. Smith, trumpet of the Boston Festival orchestra. The attendance was not as large as at the first concert, but the program was well given and was much appreciated. A fuller report will be given next week.

—A letter was received at the Advocate office this week from Mrs. L. M. (Shattuck) Stanton of New York city with a renewal of her subscription to the Advocate. Mrs. Stanton has outlived most of her contemporaries in town but she still reads the Advocate with interest. In reading the notice of the individual communion set, a gift to the Unitarian church by the late Marietta Pierce Bailey, an old time friend of Mrs. Stanton, she was reminded of the fact that All Soul's church, N. Y., which she attends has an individual communion set given by the widow of Daniel Davis. Daniel Davis was the elder son of Adolphus Davis of Arlington. Thus Arlington passes to Dr. Sullivan's New York church a memorial. The Laymen's League of that church was apportioned a large sum in the recent drive of that organization and by the assistance of G. F. Baker & Son raised a sum in five figures. Also Miss Wellington, whose mother was John Schouler's daughter, gave wonderfully in her own Unitarian Laymen's League now worshipping in Earl Hall. Col. Mrs. Stanton was born in Arlington, the daughter of Isaac Shattuck, who for some years filled the office of town clerk.

TO ARLINGTON VOTERS.

That there may be no misunderstanding in the minds of my friends regarding the matter, I wish to state I am not a candidate for the office of Selectman at our coming election. I appreciate the honor that has been conferred on me. I have enjoyed the work for the past six years, and I can heartily recommend the position to any citizen who has a little time to devote to public service.

H. A. PHINNEY.
